R. L. FULTON, PROPRIETOR

FRIDAY JULY 7, 1882

REFORM DEMANDED

The Stalwart wing of the Republican party seems to be devoting its energy to proving the justice, patriotism and desirability of political assassinations. There seems to be nothing else at present engaging its attention. It is true there has been for six years a law forbidding executive officers or employees from requesting, giving to, or receiving from any other officer or employee, any money, property, or other thing of value, for political purposes; and a violation of the act is made a peremptory reason for removal, and is further punishable by fine and imprisonment. General Grant issued an executive order three years before the law was passed. Garfield once said: "The present system impairs the efficiency of the legislature; it degrades the civil service; it repels from the service those high and many qualities which are so necessary to a pure and efficient administration; and finally, it debauches the public mind by holding up public office as the reward for mere party zeal. To reform this service is one of the highest and most imperative duties of statesmanship." It would be a worthy work for liberal Republicans all over the Union to make this a feature at the primaries and in conventions and insist upon a reform.

GUBERNATORIAL PROBABILITIES

The talk among well-informed Democratic politicians is that Governor Adams and Captain Canavan will each develop strength enough to kill the other off. There will be a third element which will prevent a nomination on the first ballot, and the result will be that neither of the gentlemen will be nominated, and some one else will step in—probably either Jerry Schooling of Reno or Col. Ellis of Carson. In the other party those who are opposed to the renomination of Governor Kinkead, claim that a reaction has set in against him which will reach a point that will render his candidacy much weaker when the convention meets than it is now. They claim that enough county delegations will come in instructed against him and in favor of some local name to prevent a nomination on the first ballot and that the opposing elements will unite upon some one after a few votes are taken and give him the nomination.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

A writer in Knowledge answers the question, "Who are our ancestors?" by saying that the men who first inhabited England were the little black fellows of the older stone age, who were wiped out by the glacial epoch and became an extinct race. Since then England has been sunk several hundred feet beneath the sea and raised again, joined to the continent, and then separated by the Straits of Dover. At this time our immediate Teutonic ancestors were living further south. After the glacial period, however, a second race, living in Britain whose descendants now are found in parts of western Ireland, spots in Scotland and a few places in Wales. They belonged to the Brythonic race, which now lives in the Principality. These were short and thick, with dark complexions. Their skulls were long and narrow. They made pottery, wove cloth, domesticated cattle and pigs and cultivated grapes in patches cleared up with their stone hatches and tomahawks.

Effecting Harmony. THURSDAY, July 7. Senator Cameron was here a few hours yesterday. He had a talk with candidates Beaver and Brosius, chairman Cooper, Collector Hartranft, Fred A. Magee of Pittsburgh, and others, in reference to uniting the Republican factions. Gen. Beaver said after the conference that no decision had been reached with a view of effecting harmony. The private secretary of President Arthur was also here.

The strength of Pacific Mail Steamship Company stock, yesterday in New York, gave rise to a rumor that the company had a connection through passenger business from Australia to Europe with one of the steamship lines from New York, which was proving less profitable to the Pacific mail company than the New York lines was seeking to terminate the contract. J. B. Houston, President of the Pacific mail company said there was no foundation for the report in any shape whatever; that the company had no contract with any trans-Atlantic steamship line. The company was doing a good business, but not greater than had been the case for some time. Should the Suez canal be closed to commerce by May 1st in Egypt the business of the Pacific mail company by the Australian route would be greatly increased.

Davitt and Ireland's Troubles.

NEW YORK, July 7.

The council of seven, appointed by the Chicago Convention and Land League Executive Committee, headed by Davitt, representing the home executive, met to-day in conference and resolved that the executive of the Irish National Land League of Ireland be requested to delegate Parnell and others of their number to meet this body as soon as may be, for the purpose of perfecting a union or confederation of the Celtic race of America, to effectively aid the people of Ireland in their struggle for freedom and self-government. It was also resolved—that as Ireland is now passing through a crisis which strains to the utmost her general and financial resources, and the people are under a merciless reign of coercion and eviction, we earnestly appeal to the whalers in America to steadily continue their efforts in their several organizations and forward ample contributions to enable the Irish people to fight to the end their great battle. The Conference thanked Davitt for his noble efforts in America, and Davitt left with the committee this evening. Suggestions were made for the formation of an Irish-American Federal Council. Davitt sails July 15th for France, where he will attend the Congress which meets upon the adjournment of the British Parliament.

Protection of the Suez Canal.

NEW YORK, July 7.

The Tribune's London cable says: News from Bombay is important, as showing the definite resolve of the Ministry to take immediate steps for the protection of the Suez route. The Indian forces ordered for embarkation from Bombay consist of 1,700 European and 5,000 native troops, and proportionate equipments, to guard the line of the canal between Suez and Ismaili, with instructions to construct for strategic purposes a line of railway along the banks of the canal between Suez and Port Said. It is said that the expedition is intended simply for the protection of the canal. Instructions have been given to scrupulously avoid any interference with the internal affairs of the country.

Jones, Attorney-General; J. M. Montgomery, Treasurer; M. Shields, Auditor; and J. P. Ward, Superintendent of Public Education.

The Republican Convention met here to-day, and, after a long wrangle, endorsed the ticket renominated at Birmingham by the Greenbackers and Independents. Resolutions were passed eulogizing President Arthur.

Starved to Death.

Egypt Will Pay Her Debts, but Allow No Interference of Any Kind.

NEW YORK, July 7.

The Herald's Alexandria special says: This morning I visited Arabi Bey at the Admiralty office. He received me standing, immediately afterward getting on a divan and coiling his legs under him. I asked him to oblige me with his views of the present situation, whether any compromise was possible, and if so what. He said: "England has no more right to Egypt than any other nation, and she must be content to accept such a position. Egypt will pay her debt, but will allow no interference of any kind. The European employees will be retained in the service as long as Egypt requires them. The lives of Europeans are safe, unless England acts aggressively, in which case the people might rise and carry all before them. He then complained bitterly of misrepresentation on the part of correspondents, showing me a letter of apology from one of the English correspondents for a misstatement. I then questioned him as to what he would do in case of certain eventualities. Arabi said: "If Turkish troops are sent to suppress the English army we will resist them to the utmost. If they come to help us we will receive them as brothers. Should European troops of any kind come we will fight till death." He expressed himself loyalty to the Khedive, but refused to answer questions about Dervish Pasha. Many Bedouin chiefs entombed at this time, Arabi's attention was distracted by the amount of hand kissing. He was most bitter against England but did not allude once to France or any other power. One of his aids informed me that a Montenegrin had been arrested for attempting to shoot Arabi to-day, but that the affair had been hushed up.

Washington Gossip.

WASHINGTON, July 7.

The announcement that Colonel Corbin is to be transferred from Washington to Arizona causes some unfavorable comment. Corbin having been a close friend of Garfield, it looks as though it was an effort to get his (Garfield's) friends out of the way. The value of the Northern Pacific unearned lands is estimated to be $183,000,000.

The indications at the Interior Department are that Payne will be promptly and severely dealt with if he undertakes to enter Indian Territory.

The situation in Egypt.

ALEXANDRIA, July 6.

Touiba Pasha, commander of the garrison, replying to the ultimatum assures Admiral Seymour that no such hostile act as he apprehends had or would be undertaken. He concludes with an appeal to Admiral Seymour's well-known humanity. The answer of the Arabic Pasha does not satisfy Admiral Seymour who has sent out to call on all English war ships. The French are encouraging Arabi Pasha to resist. Although Arabi Pasha may yield at the last moment he still preserves a defiant attitude.

Prevent Diphtheria.

A recent report on diphtheria says it is on the increase, owing to the failure of physicians in recognizing its self-propagating properties; to want of systematic nursing of patients suffering from the disease; to incomplete disinfection of premises attacked; and last, but not least, to the frequent association of convalescents with healthy persons.

Fifth, whether from dirty rooms, soiled clothing, defective drains and cess-pools, ill-ventilated rooms, poisonous, inodorous gases, etc., should be regarded as conditions which invite the disease; the apartments set apart for the patient should be divested of all furniture, carpets, curtains, and fabrics of any kind not absolutely required; discharges from the nose, mouth, and bowels, should be destroyed, and all clothing, bed linen, etc., should be thoroughly disinfected before being sent to the general wash. In case of death, all clothing and unimportant articles should be burnt, and the body should be immediately disinfected and put into its coffin, which should be kept permanently closed. There should be no public funeral.

One escaped from the hospital recently by unlocking the shackle from his foot. The other one procured an old case-knife a few days since, and set to work to saw off the head of the bolt in his armor. The jailer was aware of his industrious habits, and kindly allowed him to prosecute his work. This morning, after he had succeeded in removing one bolt, he was presented with a new outfit.

FIGHT AT THE POLLARD HOUSE.
W. T. C. Elliot Caned by General O. Evans.

W. T. C. Elliot drove to the Pollard House this afternoon for the purpose of taking his two children, living with their mother, Mrs. O. Evans, out for a ride. Mrs. Evans, it will be remembered, was granted a divorce from Elliot about two years ago and given the custody of the children. Mrs. Evans refused to allow the children to go with Elliot, telling him he could come to the house and see them, but he was not in a fit condition to take them out; whereupon he used language grossly insulting to both Mr. Evans and wife. Evans, after listening to the abuse as long as possible, took a heavy hickory cane and knocked Elliot down. Elliot attempted to draw his pistol, but was disarmed by Joe Odett. Evans continued until he had given Elliot a first-class thrashing. Dr. Bergman sewed up the wounds in Elliot's head. His scalp was pretty badly cut in several places. No arrests.

Fine Jewelry at the Bazaar.
The enterprising Nasby has added a department containing fine jewelry to the Bazaar. He has a lot of watches running from the cheapest in price up to the standard makes. His show cases are filled with rolled gold sets for ladies and gentlemen. Joined to this, she possesses first-class executive ability which has enabled her to entirely rehabilitate the Glendale school, which is noted for its tough future citizens.

A Fighting Night.
The night before last was prolific in quiet fights, not less than five fistfights encounters taking place on the main streets. They seemed to be the result mainly of the overbubbling effervescence of the Fourth. At the Palace corner two fights occurred about 1 o'clock in the morning, in which bloody noses were the order of the hour. The fights were conducted so quietly that the police failed to get wind of them, so no arrests were made, though heavy blows and tall swearing were interchanged in the liveliest way. The parties to the conflict evaporated so quietly that not even their pugilistic names remained as evidence of the combat.

A Good Report.
The first fiscal year of the present management of the N. C. R. closed June 1st. From June 1, 1881, to June 1, 1882, the earnings of the road increased $32,001.50, and the expenses decreased $15,400.00, showing a difference of $47,491.50 in favor of the present management over the corresponding time of the year previous. The Battle Mountain Messenger gives Mr. Dunn and his associates credit for able and honest management.

They Attracted Attention.
The Leader thinks Rev. Mr. James, of the Methodist Church, is about the liveliest minister that ever stuck his stakes in Eureka. Sunday evening he pressed some of the congregation into service, carried the church organ in front of the Jackson House, and opened his artillery on the surrounding classes congregated around Court House square. When the services were over the line of march was taken up for the church, where regular services were held. The scheme worked to a charm, for all the old sinners were induced to attend the church services. Even old Jack Perry trudged in, "While the lamp holds out to burn," and all that sort of thing.

The Eagle Lake Tunnel.
Marker & Merrill are making arrangements to sink a shaft on the line of their Eagle Lake tunnel, near Sunnivale, and start a drift both ways, in order to hurry the work along. A Point Decided.

The dry goods, boot and shoe, drug, hardware, brewing and liquor trades all report increased prosperity in the surrounding country, with an abundance of orders flowing in from all sections. Reno is rapidly becoming the metropolis of this part of the State, and her merchants are endeavoring to maintain her reputation for justice and square dealing.

GOLD FIELDS.

New Ores in the Northern Part of Our Continent.

(Virginia Enterprise, July 7.)

Clarence King, the geologist, in a recently-issued tabulated statement of the bullion production of different sections of the country, shows as the result of his investigation of the subject that there is noticeable falling off in the production of gold in this and other countries, which, in the absence of discoveries of new fields, points to the conclusion that the known gold deposits of the world are being exhausted. It is inferred by Mr. King that there are rich gold fields in the northern part of the North American Continent, as evidenced by the fact that appreciable quantities of gold are found in the courses taken by the glaciers which covered these States during the glacial period in geology. We recollect having seen some years ago a report of the State Geologist of Illinois, in which the statement was made that gold was found in several of these States. The gold was found in several of these States. The geology of these States point plainly to the fact that gold has come from some far distant source in company with the granite boulders that are frequently met with in the alluvial soil. Alaska gives evidence of being a profitable field for exploration for gold and copper, and the circum-polar regions may yet develop some resources in the way of mines as a providential compensation for their otherwise utter barrenness and inutility to civilized man.

The flag on the Masonic building is at half-mast to-day out of respect to the memory of the late Dr. Atchison, whose funeral took place this afternoon under the auspices of the Masonic fraternity. Quite a number of the friends of deceased from the Comstock attended the funeral.
